WINDSOR - Canada's Ambassador City

Windsor, Ontario, is Canada's largest city on the U.S.-Canada border and situated on the busiest waterway in the world, the Detroit River. During the 1963 season (262 days), vessel passages in both directions on this river totalled 14,495 (exclusive of passenger and sand boats) — an average of 55 per day, or one vessel every 26 minutes, carrying a total of over 107 million net tons of cargo. On this waterway, ply ships of great lengths, some as long as 730 feet, carrying iron ore, coal, limestone and grain through this great inland water route, the Great Lakes System. Through the St. Lawrence Seaway, foreign vessels carry goods to and from all parts of the world.

It is a geographical coincidence that, in Windsor, we are south of the United States and between Detroit (metropolitan population 3,890,000) and Windsor there cross in both directions each year nearly 23 million persons (22,893,886 in 1963), of whom over five million (5,038,128 in 1963) are American visitors to Canada. Both communities are connected by a railway tunnel, Ambassador Bridge and Detroit-Windsor vehicular tunnel.

Windsor is one of (fifth) Canada's great industrial communities (population 113,697, metropolitan 195,345), manufacturing a wide variety of products in more than 464 industries. During the past year (1963) there has been a monthly average of 28,574 people employed in Windsor area industries. While Windsor is well known for automobile manufacturing (Chrysler automobiles; Ford engines and parts; McKinnon Industries - General Motors standard and automatic transmissions; Kaiser Jeep vehicles), there is also produced here a wide range of other products such as pharmaceuticals and paints and nationally advertised products like: Anacin, Burroughs Machines, "Windsor Salt" (rock salt mines here produce more salt than all other Canadian salt works and salt mines combined), Tums, Toledo Scales, Hiram Walker's "Canadian Club", Champion Spark Plugs, Bicycle Playing Cards, Green Giant (canned vegetables and the largest sweet corn processors in Canada), Carling's Black Label, Dragon Brand Frozen Foods, and many other items. According to official estimates for 1964, Windsor area will spend 38.1 million dollars for investment in new industrial construction, machinery, equipment and repairs. Chrysler Canada is presently expanding facilities here, and General Motors has announced large expansion in the Windsor area for completion in 1965. Windsor was the first to inaugurate (1959) a standardized industrial apprenticeship programme sponsored by Windsor Chapter, Ontario Industrial Education Council. Windsor factories continue to add more value to manufactured goods, per employee, than their counterparts in other Canadian industrial centres (1959—$4,315 latest figure available).

During 1963, eighteen new industries located here. Eight new plants were built and there were 37 plant expansions included among 430,471 square feet of new industrial space constructed during the year. Over a ten year period (1954-1963), there has been an average industrial growth of 6.12 acres per year of factory space for new plants and expansions; this is a total, for the period, of 51 new plants and 377 expansions. An annual average of 594 new dwelling units have been built in the Windsor area during the past five years.

This area is well served by five main railways and one terminal line; a transcontinental air line (Trans-Canada Air Lines); an international air line (Canadian Pacific Air Lines Limited-South America-Mexico-Windsor to Madrid and Rome); chartered flights, and highway transport facilities. An extensive expansion programme has been completed at the Windsor Airport ($1,000,000 new terminal building, $1,340,000 in runways). Additional runways are planned for the future to accommodate enlarged jet service. Windsor, too, is determined to realize every advantage of the St. Lawrence Seaway for its port which now provides Great Lakes transportation. A Harbour Commission is now in operation. The area under its supervision has been extended and existing facilities are being improved and expanded and new port facilities established.

The Windsor area is maintaining its pace with the amazing growth of Canada and is making plans for its optimistic future. The City has expanded since the end of World War II under a zoning system to protect the stability of residential, commercial and industrial properties.

In 1961, the annual average of all taxable incomes for the nation was $4,348; for the Province of Ontario, $4,498; for Windsor $4,577. The 1961 average family income in Windsor was $5,384.

The community is constantly developing a programme of progressive capital expenditures on a period basis (current 1964-1968 is $11,215,000 on which debentures totalling $9,450,000 will be issued. The balance of $1,765,000 will be financed from the capital fund acquired through the debenture trust account). As of January 1, 1959, Windsor inaugurated the Council-Manager plan of municipal government which has already achieved an outstanding record of success.

With all recent improvements (to December 31, 1963) costing $18,800,000, Windsor has one of the lowest ($168.13) per capita gross debenture debt among cities in Canada.

Windsor recently embarked upon a broad programme of urban renewal for this area. The second project (commercial-institutional-residential) in its redevelopment plans is now under way and the first building in this area, the Essex County Courts Building, was completed in 1963. This programme involves about nine acres with a total development and construction cost of about $15,000,000.

Windsor's programme of redevelopment and beautification, launched in 1956, triggered immense private and public interest and investment in this community. Today's very attractive Civic Centre was formed around a nucleus which began with the new municipal courts building and new city hall, completed in 1957 and 1959 respectively. The Civic Centre project is continuing and will eventually be integrated with the important redevelopment taking place in the downtown riverfront area. Only the initial stages of Windsor's waterfront development have been completed: the Cleary Auditorium and Memorial Convention Hall, and Dieppe Gardens, completed in 1960, and the Hiram Walker Historical Museum, on the same site, officially opened May 7, 1958. It is little wonder that Windsor has become Canada's outstanding international convention centre. Further development is being planned which includes extensions to existing riverfront parks for a length of two miles westerly along the shoreline and the possibility of a luxury hotel and a marina.

The Windsor area has excellent facilities for education of its 51,762 students (1963: 108 primary schools; 15 secondary schools, including 2 junior vocational schools which opened in September, 1963; University of Windsor with Holy Redeemer, Canterbury, and Iona Colleges as affiliates, and Assumption University of Windsor federated within the new University; Western Ontario Institute of Technology opened here in September, 1958; and the Windsor Teachers College opened in September of 1962). Windsor is the first city in Ontario to have "language lab" courses in elementary and secondary schools.

Opportunities for all types of recreation are available here and for restoration and protection of health (5 hospitals, one of which comprises the Essex County Sanatorium; Victorian Order of Nurses and Red Cross Units). All the basic, voluntary, health, welfare agencies (20) are supported financially by The Community Fund and Welfare Council of Greater Windsor established, originally, in 1947.

There are 161 churches and 4 synagogues in the Windsor area, embracing a wide group of religious affiliations.

In the field of sociology, health and general welfare, Windsor has given a generous share of leadership. In 1949, Windsor established the first Child Guidance Clinic in Canada. In 1919 there was established in the Windsor area, the first amalgamated health unit in Canada comprising six communities. A larger unit for the entire county area is expected to be in operation by July 1, 1964. Windsor Medical Services, Inc. is the first doctor-sponsored, pre-paid community medical plan in Canada. Prescription Services, Inc. (Windsor) is the first prepaid, voluntary medical prescription service in existence. The Windsor Cancer Clinic, opened in 1935 is one of the original cancer clinics sponsored by the Ontario Government. Windsor is one of the first four Ontario communities to establish (1954) homes for senior citizens. At present there are 108 units for couples and 36 units for individuals. In 1955, the first community co-ordinating centre for rehabilitation services in Ontario was established here. Windsor is among the first to have a "Day Centre" for senior citizens. Windsor's million dollar Huron Lodge, one of the finest homes for the aged in Canada (150-bed capacity), was completed in 1961.

Windsor and Essex County (total population 259,000) enjoy the news services of an outstanding Canadian daily newspaper — The Windsor Star (winner John A. MacLaren Newspaper award in 1963 and 1964) circulation 79,324; ten weekly newspapers; Radio Stations CBE (1550), CKWW (580) CJSP (710) Leamington; CKLW (800) and CKLW-TV (9) one of the most powerful (325,000 watts) television stations on the North American Continent.

In spite of an increasing volume of traffic, Windsor's record compares most favourably with traffic records of communities of similar size. Traffic accidents were held down to 2,336 and 11 fatalities in 1963. At the Ontario Department of Transport Safety Work Shop held here in 1963, Windsor was awarded the Pedestrian Safety Award for the third time in four years, taking second place only in 1960. Area automobile registrations for 1963 totalled 65,069. Besides this traffic during the past year 1,995,613 U.S. automobiles entered Canada at this point. Progressive traffic changes and off-street parking facilities are being constantly studied and improved.

Windsor's industry is well balanced with a prosperous agricultural community in Essex County, well known as the "Sun Parlour of Canada" where there are produced 33 different fruit and vegetable crops. Because of a favourable climate (average winter high 35, low 27; summer high 78, low 58) fertile soil and a long growing season from average of 208 days in northern section to 216 days in the south, with average of 165 frost-free days, the county produces fruit (peaches, pears, apples, cherries) and vegetables which reach markets one to five weeks earlier than any other area in Canada: corn, soy beans, wheat, oats, tobacco, sweet potatoes, asparagus. Farms here have a higher per capita production than anywhere else in Canada. 51% of total Ontario production of field crop tomatoes for canning are grown in Essex County. Essex County holds second place in the province in acreage devoted to fruit trees with peach and dwarf apple trees showing consistent gain. 1961 census figures set a value of $7,644,912 on livestock and poultry in Essex County. There are nearly 200 acres of land under glass in the Sun Parlour of Canada — nearly half of the greenhouse area in Canada. These greenhouses produce more than $3 million worth of cucumbers and tomatoes annually. Floricultural products are becoming increasingly important. The largest gladiolus bulb supplier in Canada is located in Leamington, which is also the home of the world's largest tomato processing plant, operated by the H. J. Heinz Company of Canada Limited.
